

Ashley Singh graduated from Yale University in 1995 and is now President and CEO of GSM Metals, Inc., a privately-owned precious metal alloy manufacturing and fabricating company located in Cranston, Rhode Island. GSM strives to supply its customer base with domestically sourced and fabricated products that are manufactured with keen social and environmental awareness. As a founder and part-owner of the $40M business, Mrs. Singh determines GSM's overall business strategy and oversees operations as well as supply chain management. With over 15 years of experience in the industry, Mrs. Singh has cultivated key strategic partnerships with international market leaders in the jewelry and industrial sectors, providing GSM's customers with a seamless supply of precious metal products. As past Vice President of Operations for Cimini & Associates, Inc., Mrs. Singh was responsible for creating C&A's jewelry division which has seen annual revenues as high as $35M per year even during the global economic downturn. Mrs. Singh is a member of the MJSA, WJA, Boston Jewelers Club and Providence Jewelers Club.